OUR MISSION

Allora! is the Sydney-based newspaper published by Italian Australian News. Allora! is the Italian for 'well' or 'so' - a filler word pointing to what a reader must know before moving on to other things.

Our mission is to promote all things Italian and preserve Italian heritage in Australia.

We publish in print and digitally since 2017, with a current reach of 35,000 readers.

It is our job to constantly look to the future of the Italian-Australian community and the possibilities that each edition of our newspaper, designed with you, the readers in mind, is able to meet the changing demands of our times.

Allora! is available from newsagents across NSW and ACT and free-of-charge in print from selected community stakeholders, including clubs, associations, local councils, medical centres and Italian restaurants.

Allora! brings you comprehensive coverage on a range of topics, including local news, opinions, education, politics, community events and welfare.

We are proud to support local events, organisations and community minded initiatives that connect and inspire local peoples. Talk to us about how we can support your project through our publication.

Please visit our website for regular news updates: www.alloranews.com
